

FOREWORD

The Government of Belize continues to place special emphasis on establishing this country as a reputable and reliable supplier of quality goods and services. Notwithstanding its relatively small size, Belize's export sector capacity and capability continues to grow and remain competitive in particular niche markets such as papayas and hot-pepper. The export sector has adopted competitiveness and quality as selling points as it seeks to improve even further an already impressive record.

The Belize Trade and Investment Development Service (BELTRAIDE) was mandated to be the implementing arm of government policy in the area of Export Promotion and Investment. BELTRAIDE has been successful in producing its first edition of an Importers and Exporters Directory worthy of the highest commendation. The directory complements other initiatives that BELTRAIDE has undertaken such as the Exporter's Manual and The Priority Sectors for Investment and Export Promotion. BELTRAIDE, as part of its active support for trade globalization, industrial activities and foreign investment, sincerely hopes that this directory will stimulate further business with Belize.

The Government of Belize, in order to facilitate the best enabling environment and infrastructure, is engaged in a series of international trade negotiations. We are committed in the negotiation process for the Free Trade Areas of the Americas. The globalized trade arena has posed its share of challenges to the Belize economy, but our exporters have been able to maintain their presence in traditional markets such as CARICOM, the United States of America and Europe, while making important inroads into non-traditional markets such as Japan.

We take this opportunity to express on behalf of the Ministry of Home Affairs and Investment and BELTRAIDE to thank all those involved in producing this Directory of Importers and Exporters. We are sincerely grateful to the many entities that cooperated in the preparation of this directory, including all of the companies and associations, as well as the advertisers appearing in the directory, and to the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) for funding the production of this directory as an activity of the BELTRAIDE-IDB Technical Cooperation Project.

I wish to reiterate the Government of Belize's commitment to the production of quality goods and services, and to thank BELTRAIDE for providing another window showcasing this country's products to the world.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, consisting of a large, stylized 'R' followed by a horizontal line.

Hon. Ralph H. Fonseca
Minister of Home Affairs & Investment

ABOUT BELTRAIDE

The Belize Trade and Investment Development Service (BELTRAIDE) is a statutory institution governed by a Board of Directors. On the Board are representatives from Government, Private sector, and Civil Society. The Board is the principal policy making organ of BELTRAIDE.

The Belize Trade and Investment Development Service (BELTRAIDE) is committed to offering local and foreign investors the services of a one-stop center for investment and trade activities. Our Investment Attraction, Export Promotion, Business Facilitation, and Trade and Research Departments strive to efficiently respond to requests, inquiries, and needs of investors and business persons. BELTRAIDE promotes investments that create job opportunities and increase foreign currency for Belize.

BELTRAIDE's main objectives are:

- Attracting and facilitating new investments
- Efficiently managing the Fiscal Incentives Program for the Government of Belize
- Identifying new non-traditional export products and markets; supporting traditional exporters
- Tendering advice and recommendations to the Government on trade promotion
- Developing trade policies and participating in trade negotiations
- Providing accurate, timely data and research on trade matters

BELTRAIDE maintains a comprehensive trade and investment library for all business persons to utilize. Potential investors can contact BELTRAIDE to collect necessary information about incentive programs, regulations, and procedures governing investment in Belize.

COUNTRY PROFILE

GEOGRAPHICAL DATA

Area: Total: 8,867 sq. miles
 Water: 100 sq. miles
 Land: 8,767 sq. miles

STRATEGIC GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION

Belize, formerly British Honduras, is located on the eastern coast of Central America, in the heart of the Caribbean Basin.

BORDERS

Mexico to the North
 Guatemala to the West and South
 The Caribbean Sea to the East

LENGTH & CHARACTERISTICS OF THE COAST

The coastline of Belize extends for 241 sq. miles, along the eastern coast of Central America. The Barrier Reef, which is 185 miles long, runs along the coast, and is the largest in the Western Hemisphere. Belize is the only country in Central America without a coastline on the North Pacific Ocean.

Topography

The northern half of mainland Belize is a plain which supports sugar cane farming along with native scrub vegetation, dense hardwood tropical forests, and coastal mangrove swamps. Central Belize is comprised of large savannas that rise into the Mountain Pine Ridge and the Maya Mountains. The second-largest barrier reef (185 miles long) and three of the four coral atolls in the Western Hemisphere fall within Belize's territory.

Hydrography

The major rivers of Belize flow eastward from Guatemala. The Belize River, with Belize City as its mouth, empties into the Gulf of Honduras. The Rio Hondo River forms much of the boundary with Mexico, and Sarstoon River forms much of the southern border with Guatemala.

POLITICAL FRAMEWORK

GOVERNMENT TYPE

Belize is a Parliamentary Democracy and the government is divided into three branches: the Legislative, the Judicial, and the Executive - all independent of each other.

EXECUTIVE BRANCH

The Chief of State is Queen Elizabeth II (since February 6, 1952) represented by Governor General, Sir Colville Young Sr. (since November 17, 1993). The head of government is the Prime Minister, Said Wilbert Musa (since March 5, 2003).

LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The bicameral National Assembly consists of the Senate (12 members) and the House of Representatives (29 seats). Elections are held every five years.

JUDICIAL BRANCH

This branch consists of the Supreme Court of Justice, made up of three judges – the Chief Justice and two others known as Puisne Judges. All three judges are male.

GOVERNING PARTY

The People's United Party (PUP)

OPPOSITION PARTY

The United Democratic Party (UDP)

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

INVESTMENT CLIMATE

Belize provides three main elements sought by international investors:

- Stability: long – standing, democratic tradition; independent judiciary; fixed exchange rate since 1976
- Profitability: attractive fiscal incentives and concessions; Commercial Free Zones; Export Processing Zones; repatriation of profits and dividends
- Liveability: subtropical climate, virgin rainforest, un-spoilt beaches, spectacular barrier reef and friendly people

Furthermore, Belize is strategically located next to Mexico and Central America, near the US and Caribbean islands, rich in natural resources with a stable and supportive economy, bilingual workforce and established infrastructure.

The Government offers a variety of incentives to attract investors:

- 100% foreign ownership of land and company assets

- Joint ventures with local entities
- Legislation for the provision of incentives for the retirement industry
- Flexible fiscal incentives and concessions
- Commercial Free Zones and Export Processing Zones
- Vibrant, International Financial Services Industry

TRADE AGREEMENTS

Belize enjoys incentives under trade agreements with several developed countries. These include:

- Preferential market access to the Caribbean Common Market (CARICOM)
- Preferential treatment from the USA under the Caribbean Basin Initiative (CBI)
- Duty free access for certain commodities such as bananas and sugar under the Lome IV Convention
- Under CARIBCAN, certain Belizean goods enter Canada duty free

CARIBBEAN COMMUNITY AND COMMON MARKET (CARICOM)

The Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM) was established by the Treaty of Chaguaramas, which was signed by Barbados, Jamaica, Guyana, and Trinidad and Tobago, and came into effect on August 1st, 1973. CARICOM is aimed at the eventual integration of its members and economies, and the creation of a common market – the CARICOM Single Market Economy (CSME).

Under the CARICOM agreement, all imported products entering Belize from one of the CARICOM member countries are exempted from import duties. In order to receive an exemption, importers must produce to the Comptroller of Customs a CARICOM Certificate of Origin which validates the CARICOM origin.

CARICOM Members

Antigua and Barbuda, Belize, Grenada, Montserrat, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Turks and Caicos Islands, the Bahamas, British Virgin Islands, Guyana, St. Kitts and Nevis, Suriname, Barbados, Dominica, Jamaica, St. Lucia, Trinidad and Tobago

CARICOM Observers

Anguilla, the Cayman Islands, Haiti, Puerto Rico, Aruba, Colombia, Mexico, Venezuela, Bermuda, Dominican Republic, Netherlands Antilles

On May 1st, 1971, Belize (then, British Honduras) became a member of CARICOM. Within CARICOM, Belize is listed as a Less Developed Country (LDC), and has been designated as one of the disadvantaged countries in the Community. Belize can export most of its products to CARICOM duty-free. Products which do not meet the qualifying conditions (i.e. Rules of Origin) must face the import duties as prescribed in the Common External Tariff (CET).

TARIFFS

What is a tariff?

A tariff is a tax placed on imported or exported goods, sometimes called a customs duty. A revenue tariff is set with the intent of raising money for the government. A protective tariff, usually applied to imported goods, is intended to artificially inflate prices of imports and “protect” domestic industries from foreign competition.

What is an ad valorem tariff?

An ad valorem tariff is a fixed percentage of the value of the good that is being imported. In some instances these may be problematic as when the international price of a good falls, so does the tariff, and domestic industries become more vulnerable to competition. Conversely, when the price of a good rises in the international market, so does the tariff.

What is a specific tariff?

A specific tariff is a tariff of a specific amount of money that does not vary with the price of the good. These tariffs may be harder to decide the amount at which to set them, and may need to be updated due to changes in the market or inflation.

THE COMMON EXTERNAL TARIFF (CET)

Belize, as a member of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM), adopts the Common External Tariff (CET), which is a single-tier tariff schedule for goods imported from non-CARICOM countries.

The following is a list of sections and chapters included in the Belize Customs Tariff and Trade Classification, Laws of Belize Chapter 38 (Effective 1st April 1998):

PRIORITY SECTOR PROFILES

Traditional Agriculture

Belize's economic output has traditionally been primarily based on agriculture. However, within the past five years there has been a prominent shift towards the services sector with emphasis on tourism and finance.

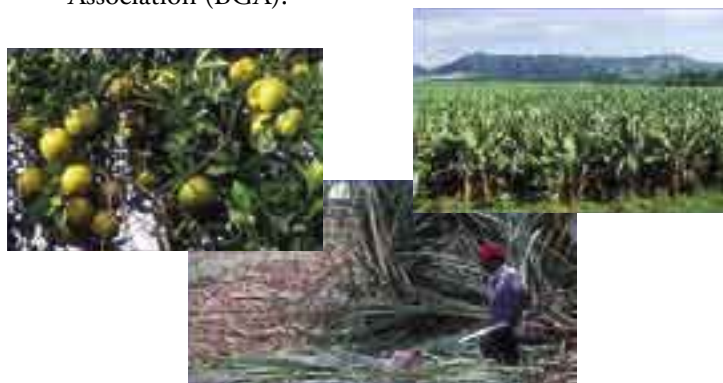

Belize's top three agricultural exports are citrus, sugar, and bananas. Agriculture currently provides about 71% of the country's total foreign exchange earnings, and employs approximately 29% of the total labour force.

Sugar accounts for about 60% of Belize's agricultural exports, and the principal crop is sugar cane which is used for sugar production and a feed stock for ethanol production. Sugar cane is grown primarily in Northern Belize. About 50% of Belize's sugar exports are sent to the EU under the EU Sugar Protocol and the Special Preferential Quota. Sugar exports to the US enter duty-free under the Caribbean Basin Initiative (CBI).

Growth in citrus exports over the past ten years has averaged 24% per annum, making it the fastest growing agricultural industry. Citrus production is concentrated in the Stann Creek and Cayo Districts. Citrus harvesting and processing takes place during the months of October to July, and the main crop varieties are Valencia and Temple.

Over 95% of the fresh fruit citrus is processed into concentrates and not-from-concentrates (NFC's), with the balance sent for export mainly to the U.K. The U.S, Europe, Japan, and CARICOM are the main importers of Belizean citrus products, and Belize continues to depend heavily on preferential duty-free treatment into these markets.

Banana production is concentrated in Southern Belize. Privatization of banana estates began in 1985, and prior to this the industry was publicly owned. The species grown in Belize are of the "Cavendish" type, which is one of the most commonly grown varieties. All of Belize's banana exports are sent to the U.K. through the Banana Growers Association (BGA).

Agro-Processing

Agro-processing was identified as an area of high priority as Belize has an abundance of raw materials available to support the industry. With the advent of the loss of preferential access into the U.K, Belize will have to take pro-active measures to protect its agricultural industry. With this in mind, there has been a push towards value-added traditional crops, as well as the promotion of non-traditional crops such as papayas, hot peppers, soybean, and organically grown vegetables. An opportunity has also been identified to brand, differentiate, and niche market some of these products in order to de-emphasize price as the leading determinant of exports.

The shift towards the promotion of value-added and non-traditional agricultural crops has led to an increase in light manufacturing and agro-processing. Sugar, citrus, banana, and rice-based value-added products such as banana flour, banana chips, banana figs, crystallized citrus, orange and grapefruit segment, and dried fruits, as well as hot peppers in the area of non-traditional crops have been identified as areas that should be targeted for export and additional investment. Diversifying into agro-processing represents a viable strategy that would make the agricultural industry in Belize more sustainable, in light of the phasing out of preferential access to markets.

In addition, value-added products typically command higher prices, and provide greater opportunities for branding Belizean products and niche marketing. This would thereby help to eliminate some of the cost disadvantages that Belize faces when competing with countries that have larger scale production and cheaper labour.

Offshore Financial Services

In an effort to increase economic diversification, Belize is a tax haven with investor friendly advantages for non-residents. The Offshore Financial Services Industry has been identified as an area of opportunity for Belize given the size of the industry worldwide and in the Caribbean, as well as the fact that Belize has well developed legislation for Offshore Financial Services, a reasonably well-developed domestic financial industry, and its proximity to the large USA, Mexican, and Canadian markets.

Belize also boasts that it is the only English-speaking country in Central America, has a literate workforce, low operating costs, a stable economy, flexible fiscal incentives, and has had a fixed exchange rate for 25 years.

Today, there are more than 35,000 active International Business Companies (IBC) on the register, and in addition there are other corporate vehicles available in the jurisdiction such as limited liability companies, mutual funds, protected cell companies, offshore trusts, international insurance, and offshore banking. Belize has also established programs such as Export Processing Zones (EPZ) and Commercial Free Zones (CFZ) to encourage investment.

Despite the September 11th attacks, Belize is the only country in Central America that has experienced steady and continuous growth in the International Financial Services Industry.

Belize has put in place a variety of measures to combat money laundering and fraud. The International Financial Services Commission (IFSC) is responsible for maintaining and enhancing the reputation of Belize as a viable offshore financial center. The Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) was also recently established in a further effort to combat money laundering and the financing of terrorism. The Unit is also responsible for investigating and prosecuting money laundering and other financial crimes such as internet fraud.

Furniture Manufacturing

Belize has an abundance of forestry resources, and the forestry industry has a long history in Belize. As a British colony, logwood was the first product ever exported from Belize in the 1600s. By the end of the 1700s, exports turned to mahogany, and until 1959 when sugar and citrus became the main exports, the Belizean economy was dependent on the mahogany trade.

The main location of the largest furniture manufacturers in Belize is in the Cayo District, namely San Ignacio and Belmopan. Proximity to lumber yards is the predominant reason for this location.

Typical secondary processed wood products in Belize include carved doors of Mayan and Colonial type, clam chairs, Caribbean patio sets, hammock chairs, cutting boards of tropical mixed hardwoods, carved coffee tables, office furniture, and bedroom furniture.

Approximately 700 species of trees are native to Belize, making tropical timber a valuable resource. This natural resource serves as Belize's potential comparative advantage, shielding it from the import prices of the international lumber market, and as such, sustainability is vital.

A positive indicator of future trends in forestry, however, is the low population density of Belize. Higher densities tend to put pressure on land and natural resources due to agricultural production and urban development. In addition to this, the government is working on restricting exports to legally and sustainably harvested timber.

Tourism

Tourism is one of the largest contributors to the Belizean economy. Less vulnerable than the traditional industries, tourism serves as a catalyst for further national development, as it encourages new investment by both the private and public sector. It allows Belize to gain worldwide recognition and helps us to create greater awareness and appreciation for our own cultural and natural resources.

Belize is home to a wide array of natural attractions. White sand islands surround the Western Hemisphere's longest barrier reef, jungle-covered foothills rising up to the Maya Mountains, world-class diving and fishing, lush rainforests, cascading waterfalls, ancient temples, and abundant wildlife are just a few of the attractions that allows Belize to be truly considered "Mother Nature's best-kept secret".

Belizeans are committed to eco-tourism, conserving natural areas and cultural heritage, and are happy to share their paradise with those who wish to help preserve it. Each year more and more visitors come to Belize to enjoy its many wonders. Friends and families are drawn to this magical and beautiful land to dive, fish, hike, explore, learn, or just to relax.

In 2004, total overnight tourist arrivals were 230,832, a 4.7% increase from 2003 figures (220,574).

The main market for Belize continues to be the United States, and approximately 137,367 tourists were Americans. This represents a 7.9% increase from 2003.

In 2004, there were 406 cruise ship calls into Belizean port. This represented a 28.9% increase in cruise ship calls over 2003. Total cruise passengers for 2004 totaled 851,436, which represents a 48.0% passenger increase from 2003.

Tourism has been identified as one of Belize's priority sectors for attracting investors, as additional investment would result in the earning of additional foreign exchange through the export of tourism services. Growth in the industry would also result in spillover benefits in other sectors/industries such as agriculture, handicraft making, and services that support or complement tourism.

Each year the Belize Tourism Board releases its Travel & Tourism Statistics Digest showing the performance of the tourism industry. For more information on the tourism industry in Belize, and a comprehensive listing of accommodations, restaurants, charters, tours, etc. please visit the Belize Tourism Board's website at www.travelbelize.org, or contact them at:
